If you've produced high quality, effective communications, we want to reward you.

All entries must be received by February 3, 2017.

Tips for submitting entries

- The only information the judges have is what you submit.
- A piece cannot just look good. The written summary is essential. Be sure to address all the points listed on the next page. Why was it developed? How did you measure the effectiveness? Why and how was it used? What was the budget and did you stay within budget? If not, why.
- Poor grammar and misspellings factor into the judging.
- Make sure any online entry can be called up by the judges without needing access to a secure site.
- Multiple copies of a magazine are one entry. They are judged as a group. If a magazine comes out quarterly, the judges want to see all four produced that year. If it is monthly, include all 12.
- If you enter an item in multiple categories, tailor the summary to the category.

Encourage your local media to enter the Watermark Awards for Media Excellence. For a media entry form, visit either www.tawwa.org or www.weat.org or www.txwater.org.

B. Goal and objectives

Outline the goals and objectives of the entry and tell how well they relate to the goals of the organization. Include information on how you approached the problem and the reason for the approach. Tell how and by whom the plan to implement the work was developed. Describe the plan, including the media selected.

C. Implementation

Tell how the work was carried out and what role you played in the project. Describe the budget (if available), budget limitations, time constraints or other problems you encountered.

D. Results and evaluations
