WELCOME BACK! The Central Texas Section hopes you had a great summer. We are looking forward to a great year with interesting topics that will be educational and entertaining.

Thompson Conference Center on the UT Austin Campus. The meeting cost of $10 ($5 for students) includes dinner, short business meeting, and a presentation entitled Groundwater in Rural Texas. The presentation will be made by Mary K. Sahs. Ms. Sahs is an attorney, currently practicing as a sole practitioner under the firm name Sahs & Associates, P.C. Ms. Sahs will provide information about groundwater regulation, quantity and quality. She will address groundwater conservation district rules, as well as, county regulations. It will be helpful primarily to those interested in groundwater issues in unincorporated areas of the State, or rural areas. Some specific information will be provided on rules and regulations in the Texas Hill Country counties. Secondly, Ms. Sahs will discuss the burgeoning area of groundwater marketing, or "water ranching".

For nearly twenty years, she has focused her practice on the areas of environmental and water law. Ms. Sahs has written and spoken extensively on environmental and water issues. She is co-editor of West's Texas Practice Series, Environmental Law, a treatise on Texas environmental law. SUMMER FUN!

The third annual summer meeting of the Central Texas Section of WEAT and the Capital Area Chapter of the Texas Section AWWA was yet another huge success. Approximately 120 WEAT/AWWA members, spouses and friends departed on the Commodore II Riverboat at the Hula Hut dock and enjoyed the wonderful scenery on our way to Green Shores where we had a delicious fajita dinner. Following dinner, TCEQ Commissioner Kathleen Hartnett White spoke on a number of issues of interest to the group, including the challenge posed by recent flooding in assessing the safety of the Medina Reservoir dam, and dealing with the combination of water supply and quality issues. She also provided the group an update on the status of the Chapter 217 regulations that are a major topic of interest for the membership. It was a great presentation to top off an enjoyable evening. Thank you Commissioner for taking the time to visit with us. The summer meeting also represented a changing of the guard for your Central Texas WEAT officers. Your new officers are listed above. Thanks to our past officers for their service.
