12. Winners will be recognized during the Texas Water 2020™ conference in Fort Worth March 31- April 3.

Tips for submitting entries

- The only information the judges have is what you submit.
- A piece cannot just look good. The written summary is essential. Be sure to address all the points listed on the next page. Why was it developed? How did you measure the effectiveness? Why and how was it used? What was the budget? Did you stay within budget? If not, why.
- Poor grammar and misspellings factor into the judging.
- Make sure any online entry can be called up by the judges without needing access to a secure site.
- Multiple copies of a magazine are one entry. They are judged as a group. If a magazine comes out quarterly, the judges want to see all four produced that year. If it is monthly, include all 12.
- If you enter an item in multiple categories, tailor the summary to the category.

Encourage your local media to enter the Watermark Awards for Media Excellence. For a media entry form, visit www.txwater.org.

Requirements

Submit a completed entry form, synopsis and a maximum two-page, double-spaced summary. In the summary, address:

A. Problem or opportunity

Discuss the situation that your entry was designed to address. Tell how the problem or opportunity affected the organization. Provide information about the intended audience – size, location, other demographics – and any other characteristics that will help the judges understand the audience your entry is designed to reach, including any unique problems in communication with that audience.

B. Goal and objectives

Outline the goals and objectives of the entry. Tell how well they relate to the goals of the organization. Include information on how you approached the problem and the reason for the approach. Tell how and by whom the plan to implement the work was developed. Describe the plan, including the media selected.

C. Implementation

Tell how the work was carried out and what role you played in the project. Describe the budget (if available), budget limitations, time constraints or other problems you encountered.

D. Results and evaluations

Describe the results of your work. Tell how the objectives were met. Describe how you evaluated the entry's effectiveness. If no evaluation system was built into the process, explain why not. If it is too soon to expect results, include a description of evaluation tools to be used.

Applications and supporting detail can be submitted online at www.txwater.org. Online applicants can send hard copies of supporting materials if they think the judges would benefit by the materials.
